If it is of some value, and the finder is dishonest, you will probably never see it again, unless you offer a

If the finder is honest, and knows the article to be of value, he will naturally think you are willing to spend a few cents for an ad, and he will probably look in the Lost and Found column of THE WASHINGTON HERALD, because The Herald has more maders than any other morning paper here.

It is but human nature to think that if the loser of an article will not spend a few cents to get it back, he does not value the article very much.
